In 2025, the year BMA celebrated its 30th anniversary, the firm reaffirmed a conviction built over three decades: an organization's growth is measured not only by the results it delivers to clients, but also by the way it contributes to the development of people and society.

The 2025 Social Responsibility Report brings together initiatives that reflect this commitment and demonstrate how purpose and performance go hand in hand in building an increasingly collaborative, diverse, and welcoming environment.

The publication highlights progress related to diversity, equity, inclusion, education, volunteering, well-being, pro bono legal work, and the strengthening of organizational culture. It also demonstrates how environmental, social, and governance issues are embedded in the firm's legal practice, contributing to the development of more responsible, resilient, and future-ready businesses.

More than a record of initiatives, the report reflects the engagement of the people who are part of BMA and who turn values into action every day. It is this collective commitment that enables the firm to broaden its impact and consistently contribute to its people, clients, and society.
