Recognition

BMA is among the firms recognized in the Lexology 100: Data 2026, a global ranking that identifies the world's leading legal practices in the data field, with a focus on privacy, information protection, and cybersecurity.

The selection takes into account technical excellence, practical experience, and market recognition, reinforcing BMA's position as a reference in strategic data and information security matters within the global legal landscape.

We congratulate and thank our team for their consistent work, dedication, and high technical standards that make this recognition possible.
