Once again, we have been distinguished in IAM Patent 1000, which identifies the leading patent practices and practitioners around the world. The guide reported high praise from clients:

"The patent practitioners at Barbosa Müssnich Aragão are a pleasure to work with. Their advanced technical knowledge and strong ability to anticipate market opportunities mean they provide advice aligned with business interests. The icing on the cake is the competitive rates that their advisory packages come at."

BMA IP partners Antonella Carminatti and Ana Cristina Müller were cited as references in Brazil. According to IAM Patent 1000, they stand out for their high level of strategic leadership in a variety of transactional scenarios: "IP head Carminatti is superb from a commercial perspective when reviewing and drafting licensing agreements and negotiating portfolio acquisitions. As patent practice chief, chemical engineer Müller coordinates a deep bench of engineers and scientists to ensure that every instruction receives the closest possible attention."

The guide singled out another member of our patents team, chemical engineer Lilian Ghitnick, who "is another master of prosecution: bringing creative flair to the practice, she knows how to avoid obstacles on the path to successful grant."

We have a multidisciplinary team that brings together the technical skill of scientists and engineers and the legal knowledge of attorneys, providing clients with high-quality services in the area of Intellectual Property that are unmatched in the Brazilian market.

This year's IAM Patent 1000 ranking confirms the competitiveness and excellence of the services delivered by our Intellectual Property practice. It is an honor to achieve these results for our clients and receive their positive evaluations.
