Crisis Management

BMA has been involved in the main crises in Brazil over the last decade, acting as our clients' ally in exceptional times, from zero hour to litigation following the events.

We are agile and attentive, and even under pressure we retain an analytical, multidisciplinary, integrated and creative approach to finding the best outcomes. From ransomware attacks to environmental disasters, our team is prepared to deal with all kinds of crises and their consequences, offering calm and confident support to our clients at especially stressful moments in their businesses.

Guided by a sense of urgency, our lawyers have the versatility needed to manage the wide range of crises that can arise, acting to protect our clients' reputation and mitigate the impacts on their businesses. Our complete, integrated crisis management services safeguard stakeholders and protect national and international companies operating in Brazil, whether public or private, by identifying solutions to deal with immediate problems, without losing sight of the future consequences that rapid decision-making may entail.

Our lawyers make availability a priority, and take a holistic approach, calling on the various practice areas of our full service firm as needed to manage emergency situations that can have impacts of different kinds. In this way, we are able to achieve a global view while acting surgically at each state of the crisis, developing strategies for multiple scenarios and identifying consequences along each decision path.
